if your doctor recommends an over-the-counter acid reducer for your heartburn after January 1, 2011, ask medicaldirector.com

there's nothing ails him, but he spends more time using around the doctor's office than he does at work."

of course, not everyone does this, but if you work out that you're paying more than the standard 30 cents per kilometre, don't leave a tip because you're already being ripped off.
